Illinois death penalty ruled unconstitutional

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court ruled today that the state's death penalty law is unconstitutional.

The court ordered that two St. Clair County men convicted of murder be sentenced to prison terms, the maximum penalty for murder now legal in Illinois.

The high court said several provisions of the state law were faulty, including a section requiring a three-judge panel to impose the death penalty after considering possible extenuating circumstances.

"The imposition of the death penalty under this statute is improper," said the opinion written by Justice Thomas E. Kluczynski.

The court had been asked to force a three-judge panel in St. Clair County to decide whether to impose the death penalty in case of two Alorton men, David Lott, 23, and Willie Cotton, 26, who were convicted of murdering two persons during a 1974 tavern robbery.

However, the three judges said the state constitution did not permit them to review the case, and State's Atty. Robert Rice asked the Supreme Court for a ruling on the law's constitutionality.

A spokesman for the Illinois Department of Corrections said it was uncertain whether any other persons had been sentenced to death by a panel of judges since the law went into effect in 1974.

Offenses punishable by death under the law include multiple murders, murders of police officers, firemen or correctional officers; murder during a hijacking; paid murders, and murders during the course of robbery, rape, kidnapping, arson or taking indecent liberties with a child.

The Illinois General Assembly passed a bill in 1973 making the death penalty mandatory for those convicted of murder. That action came after the U.S. Supreme Court struck down state death penalty laws in 1972 on the grounds that they had been selectively enforced, denying some defendants equal protection under the law guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

Gov. Daniel Walker used his amendatory veto powers to change the bill passed by the legislature, specifying the death penalty for only certain types of murder and adding the three-judge panel with power to waive the penalty for compelling reasons.

The General Assembly accepted Walker's changes and the law went into effect in 1974.

In its ruling, the state Supreme Court said that the three-judge panel constituted formation of a new court. It said the General Assembly lacked the authority under the 1970 Illinois Constitution to create a new court.

Rice said he was disappointed by the decision but added, "We have to be realistic and pragmatic about it. We have to urge our legislature to come up with a statute that can be upheld."

Rice said, "The court isn't saying Illinois can't have a death penalty."

Motions filed by Burke, Dunphy

Four motions were filed at noontime today in the Circuit Clerk's office on behalf of Jim G. Burke and Herb Dunphy, both indicted Thursday in connection with absentee voting irregularities.

Filed by the law firm of Dixon, Devine, Ray and Morin, the motions seek to correct official court records, which, the motion claims, contain incorrect information concerning a list of witnesses.

An amended entry is asked, in one motion, to state that no list of witnesses was furnished to either defendant during an arraignment Friday.

A second motion asks a list of specific grand jurors be furnished to the defendants.

During a Friday arraignment, both defendants were furnished a list of jurors, some of whom did not serve on the grand jury which returned the indictments.

Another motion claims they (defendants) were "falsely advised of their accusers" with an incomplete list of jurors and, based upon that charge, the motion seeks to have not guilty pleas withdrawn on behalf of Burke and Dunphy.

A re-presentment hearing is asked for in the motion, during which time a specific list of grand jurors who sat in on the session, be furnished. As an alternative to the re-presentment hearing, the motion asks the indictments be dismissed.

Dunphy, Burke and Alice Dempsey were indicted Thursday on charges of perjury, solicitation and unlawful observation of voting.

Patty's mental state is deteriorating fast, say lawyers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — As a magazine article pictured Patricia Hearst as a willing revolutionary, her attorneys said today that her mental state is deteriorating swiftly in jail and called for her transfer to a hospital.

Miss Hearst's attorneys met with reporters hours after publication of a Rolling Stone story which said the newspaper heiress rode cross-country with sports activist Jack Scott four months after she was kidnapped and that she rejected his offer to take her home.

Attorney Terence Hallinan declined comment on specific points in the article. But when asked about a taped jailhouse conversation in which Miss Hearst described herself as a revolutionary feminist, Hallinan said:

"The Patty Hearst that is in jail in Redwood City right now is not the same person who made those tapes and is not even the same person that Jack Scott says in the Rolling Stone article he met or that participated in the Hibernia Bank robbery."

Among the charges facing her is an accusation that she took part in an April 1974 hold-up of a San Francisco branch of Hibernia Bank.

In another development, a list of items taken from the hideouts used by Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris showed they had amassed quantities of weapons, disguises and false identification.

The Harris' apartment also contained large amounts of bombing apparatus, including pipes, clocks and about five pounds of gunpowder.

Hallinan said psychological testing in jail was taking a heavy toll on his client and said he would ask the court to allow her transfer to a hospital in San Francisco.

"She's been more spaced out, it's harder to get her to talk," he said. "She is easily overcome by tears, and it's harder to get her mind to go into these areas she's closed off."

Miss Hearst was quoted in the Rolling Stone story as responding to Scott's offer to drive her anywhere she wanted, including home, by saying: "I want to go where my friends are going."

Associate Editor Howard Kohn and reporter David Weir said today their account was based on information from unidentified sources who "talked to Patty Hearst; they were there; they helped her."

Kohn and Weir were interviewed on NBC's "Today Show."

The Rolling Stone reporters said that:

—Miss Hearst was confined, apparently in a closet, for four weeks immediately after she was kidnapped from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4, 1974, by the SLA. In an affidavit filed last week in federal court here, Miss Hearst said she was held in a closet for nine weeks.

Lane questioned JFK probe from start

(Friday's article dealt mostly with Donald Freed and his battle to see the investigation into the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy reopened. Today's finale of a two-part series deals with Mark Lane's crusade for a new look into the killing of President John F. Kennedy.)

By WAYNE LYON

Mark Lane began to question the Warren Commission's investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas even before the commission issued its report.

Lane had already made his own investigation. He testified before the Warren Commission. In his book "Rush to Judgment" he sought to prove the Warren Commission findings were wrong. In the years since the Nov. 22, 1963, slaying, he has never dropped that battle for a new look at the facts in the assassination.

Lane is hoping that the latest revelations about a letter sent by Lee Harvey Oswald, JFK's assassin, according to the Warren Commission, to the FBI in the days prior to the killing.

"No one really knows what was in that letter," Lane asserts. "We do know that at a top-level meeting with the late J. Edgar Hoover (FBI director) present, the letter was destroyed and with it the index and file pertaining to it. Now we are being told by a 'high FBI source' what it contained and that it's unrelated to the JFK assassination."

Two high Texas officials, one the attorney general of the state, both said at the time of the Warren Commission investigation that they knew Oswald was an FBI employee.

According to Lane, the Warren Commission handled that fact in this way:

They met on Jan. 22, 1964, and when the subject of Oswald's being an FBI employee came up, they asked Allen Dulles, a commission member and, incidentally, head of the CIA, if they should ask Hoover.

Dulles told them they may never find out. "Hoover will lie. I would lie myself to all but the President."

Five days later, at their next meeting the commissioners reported they were told by Hoover that Oswald had no FBI connection. The legal adviser to the commission, a lawyer named Rankin, was quoted as saying the report of Oswald's being on the FBI payroll was a "dirty rumor which must be destroyed."

Later documents prove Oswald was getting $200 a month as an FBI informer, Lane says.

Lane says a man named William S. Walter, who was a security guard in the FBI office in New Orleans, has testified the FBI knew there was going to be an attempt on JFK's life in Dallas five days before the actual assassination.

Walter was working during the night shift when a TWX message came across, alerting the New Orleans office that an attempt to kill JFK would be made. He was told to notify all agents and did so.

Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald before TV cameras in the garage of the Dallas Police Department, was also on the FBI payroll. Lane has an FBI memo to that effect which has since been released.

The Warren Commission studied a report that Jack Ruby was an organized crime "hit man" in Chicago at the time a prominent union leader was slain, said Lane. The FBI told the commission it could find no evidence to that effect.

"I walked three blocks from where the commission was meeting and found this in the National Archives," Lane chuckled, holding up a front page of an edition of the Chicago Tribune with a bold headline across the top of the page about the murder. He produced page two of the same newspaper which had a picture of Jack Ruby, going then by the name of Jack Rubenstein, as being involved in the case. Ruby took the slain

Where is the GOP?

Where was the Republican vote when Congress established the Marxist income tax?

Where was the Republican vote when wealthy men talked Congress into voting for the Federal Reserve Bank?

Where were the good Republicans when the United Nations asked for Congress's approval?

The Republicans must have joined hands with the Democrats to bring these slavery laws into forcing the freedom-loving people of America to live under ruinous laws that robbed them of their life savings.

These questions could go on for a long time.

Where were you when President Richard Nixon went to Russia or China, to the Communists' advantage? Why did you not stop vast sums of food, factory machines, important know-how given to Communists? Where were the Republican votes to stop Congress from passing a law that if the Communist countries did not pay their debts the United States would, with taxpayers' money.

The answer is the Council of Foreign Relations controls the Congress of the United States. Both parties are controlled by the same cabal. This is why America needs another party.

The American Party has a platform based on limited government as prescribed by the United States Constitution. The American Party believes in God, country and freedom and are working for the middle class citizens. The middle class is 75 per cent of the people. They want less law and more order. They want work and less government interference.

Palme not bargain for Sweden

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

STOCKHOLM—Premier Olof Palme, loaded with opportunism and general insolence, is now the prisoner of Sweden's Communist party. And he is stubborn as a mule on a fjord path in his anti-Americanism.

Sweden has a single-chamber parliament, the Riksdag. It has 350 seats. In the last general election Palme's Social Democrats got only 43 per cent of the popular vote. The Social Democrats split their parliamentary representation 175-175 with the non-Socialist coalition.

Sweden's Communist party got only 5.5 per cent of the popular vote. But this won the Communists 20 Riksdag seats out of the total 350. Moreover, as usual, the Red bloc votes as a solid unit.

The result gives the Communist party the marginal power in this country. Had Palme stepped aside, the coalition could have deprived the Reds of this marginal power. But ambitious Palme—an operator—chose to hang on to his premiership. He did so by making the Communists his tactical ally.

Palme is hopelessly vain and insufferably arrogant. His laughter is false; a device, not an enjoyment. He is sarcastic and supercilious. What can you do with a man who combs his hair with a small gold comb in public?

Here the people revere what they call the "Golden Mean." It means, roughly, taking a middle course in everything. This shows up in the country's neutrality, which has kept Sweden out of wars since Napoleon's time. But Palme, who lacks judgment and has little insight, is neutral only when he wants to be.

He deliberately and unnecessarily damages Swedish-American relations, which by tradition should be excellent. More people of Swedish descent live in New York City alone than in any Swedish city except Stockholm.

Palme, gratuitously pushing his own anti-American interviews, personally led protest parades against our Stockholm Embassy. He publicly insulted American Ambassador Jerome H. Holland, leading Washington to request that Sweden's ambassador to the United States not be replaced.

Washington left the post in Sweden vacant until ultimately appointing U.S. Ambassador Robert Strausz-Hupe, another able man who tries to soften Palme's U.S. hostility.

When you are here you find no Alfred Hitchcock mystery in Palme's Anti-Americanism. He's determined not to offend any country that can hurt him. It's as simple—and opportunistic—as that.

To please the Soviet Union and Red China he uses Sweden's foreign aid along ideological lines. Sweden gave heavily to North Vietnam; Castro's Cuba; Dr. Salvador Allende's Marxist government in Chile, etc. And Sweden gives grants to Tanzania and nearly any African country whooping things up for Communism.

At the same time, Palme butters up West Germany, Sweden's largest trading partner. Sweden was invited to join the enlarged Common Market. But fearing that membership might offend the Soviet Union, Palme refused the invitation. But he wanted a special trading agreement between Sweden and the Common Market countries. So Palme cooperated with Bonn when West Germany urged nonrecognition of Communist East Germany.

Palme is a stuck whistle on the subject of comparing the United States unfavorably with Sweden. Hokus-hokey-hokum.

Swedish socialism's spiritual and psychological sabotage destroys self-accountability. Behind the scenes here you find a scourge of alcoholism. Juvenile delinquency is the highest in Western Europe. So are suicides, crimes of avarice, embezzlement and check frauds.

Economic growth has dropped to among the lowest in Europe. So has Sweden's productivity. Sweden now has Europe's highest taxes. Yet the tax income is running more than 10 per cent below the outgo. Palme has boosted the current welfare budget here to over 20 billion kroner for the first time.

Unemployment? More people are out of work than at any time in 20 years. Sweden's unemployed are ineligible to work in the neighboring Common market, so they're just sitting—idle—in Sweden.

The inflation is the worst in northern Europe. A Swedish workman devotes nearly twice an American's man-hours of work to buy the equivalent articles.

The system has put Sweden all but flat on its back. It has milked the people dry in this lovely land.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The working with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's Egyptian-Israeli truce agreement is not that 200 U.S. technicians will be stationed on the front lines.

It's not even the multibillions we will give in aid, as our commitment to this agreement, however wasted much of that assistance will be.

It's that the settlement may well increase the tensions between Israel and the Arabs beyond all hope of reconciliation.

The treaty sets well now because of the courage of one man—Anwar Sadat of Egypt, who has risen above ancient hatreds. But Sadat's neck is stretched far out, ripe now for an assassin's bullet.

Egypt's top man has the official backing of the moderates who rule Saudi Arabia and a number of other rich and powerful Middle East states. But he has incurred the wrath of the extremists who will not hesitate to kill—and die—for their beliefs.

The moderate rulers, themselves, are on difficult ground, being absolute and old-fashioned monarchs, they know full well there are determined forces working to overthrow them. Their aides have said as much to friends of mine. These opposition forces are strongly assisted by Leonid Brezhnev's men in the Kremlin, and abetted by Arab fanatics on the one hand and, on the other, by returning Western-trained liberal and leftist students, engineers and technicians. They are small today but growing steadily. They've seen what happened to their colleague in Libya. They know of the constant threats to the life of King Hussein of Jordan. They are all too well aware of what is happening in tiny Oman. Adn, at home, in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi and even in non-Arab—but Moslem—Iran, they read the signs.

This means these rulers cannot give Sadat full support in case Israel has a show-down with another Arab country—most importantly, Syria.

And Syria is where the problem lies.

Sadat, for all his courage, has left the shaky rulers of Syria well out on a weak limb. In order to hold to their power, built on little more than sand, they must get some sort of favorable deal with Israel that will cut the strength of their oppositions. Lacking major concessions by Tel Aviv they must conceivably attack Israel in order to prove their right to rule and to prove they will not allow the Israeli permanently to govern Syrian land.

Syria has been well armed by the Soviet Union for just this eventuality.

Now the Syrian-Israeli agreement is more difficult by far than an Egyptian-Israeli truce. Israel's military men vehemently insist that security demands they hold on to the Golan Heights. Cosmetically, as a face-saving device, Tel Aviv might be willing to give up a few thousand square yards, perhaps a little more. But there is little evidence that this would solve the needs of Syria's top men, besieged as they are by those waiting to take power by force at the first opportunity.

If Syria does attack Israel, what can Sadat do but cooperate, despite signed agreements and secret understandings he may have arrived at with Kissinger? And what course can other moderate Arab nations take, in view of their own internal pressures?

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS—If you purchased lottery tickets during the past year and won nothing, it may make you feel better to know lottery ducat buyers in Northern Illinois, except the suburban counties, got an equal shake: 5.1 per cent of the tickets sold throughout the state were bought in this area and 5.1 per cent of prizes were won by individuals in these counties.

This may make you feel just plain unlucky, but at least you know someone did not do you in.

The only hangup with these figures is an unknown number of pre-sons from Wisconsin and Iowa crossed the border to buy lottery tickets in this area and were winners.

Ticket buyers shelled out $144,246,800 during the first 12-month operation of the state's lottery. If all these had been 50-cent tickets, 5.5 million would have been sold each week.

From the state's total take, 45 per cent, $64.9 million, went for prizes; 5 per cent was given lottery sales agents as commissions and 1 per cent was handed over to participating banks; 4.2 per cent was absorbed by operating expenses, leaving 44.8 per cent, $64.6 million, as net revenues to the state.

The state's net revenue from the lottery was distributed as follows: 34.1 per cent to education; 26 per cent to public health and social services; 23.1 per cent to public aid; 5.5 per cent to environment and natural resources, public protection and transportation, and 11.3 per cent to other state services.

More than 10,000 outlets dispense lottery tickets. For the first year of operations, 35 per cent were sold in grocery stores; 10 per cent in drug stores; 10 per cent in liquor stores; 10 per cent in bars and lounges; 6 per cent in restaurants; 4.5 per cent in gasoline stations; 3 per cent in specialty stores; 3 per cent in cigar newstands; 3 per cent by civic, social and fraternal groups; 3 per cent by department stores and 12.5 per cent by miscellaneous businesses.

Seventy-two per cent of lottery tickets were sold by individually owned establishments and 28 per cent by chain store outlets.

The Illinois lottery, in its first year, generated more revenue than any of the other 13 state lotteries.

The lottery bill was signed into law by Gov. Walker on Dec. 14, 1973. The first lottery tickets went on sale July 30, 1974 and the first weekly lotto and bonanza games was held on Aug. 8 at the 1974 Illinois State Fair.

The lottery's first millionaire winner came from the drawing on Nov. 5, 1974.

The first telecast of a lotto drawing was by CBS in Chicago on Dec. 22, 1974.

On the last day of 1974 the first 100 millionth lottery ticket was sold.

The biggest winner so far was a Chicagoan who on June 14 won the grand slam prize which gives him $50,000 per year for life.

In the first 12 months there were seven $1 million winners; six who claimed $400,000, $1,000 per month for life; 51 winners of $300,000; 27 who claimed $100,000 prizes; 52 winning $50,000; 4,584 who won from $250 to $25,000, and $1,317,513 claiming winnings from $20 to $200.

A total of 1,322,240 lottery ticket buyers have won prizes so far.

An estimated 6 per cent of the prize pool remains unclaimed.

The state is divided into nine districts for lottery result studies. The Northern portion is District 4 and, as noted before, got the same percentage of prizes as the percentage of ticket purchases.

This same situation was true in District 3, which comprises Central Eastern Illinois; District 7, a Central Western portion of the state; and Districts 8 and 9, both of which are in Southern Illinois.

District 2 is composed of counties in Northeastern Illinois, except Cook, and ticket buyers there bought 16 per cent of the total tickets sold and claimed 15.9 per cent of prizes.

District 1 is Cook County, where people purchased 54.6 per cent of all ticket dispensed and won 54.7 per cent of prizes.

District 5 is a Western Illinois area which includes Rock Island and part of Whiteside Counties, along with others and individuals there bought 3 per cent of all tickets and won 2.9 per cent of prizes.

District 6, which includes Peoria and LaSalle Counties, provided 3 per cent of ticket sales and 3.1 per cent of prizes went to buyers in that area.

A friend has counseled us "save your money."

But the writer, who has not purchased more than two tickets in any one week and has averaged less than one buy per week, replied to the exhortation, "I don't expect to win but there is no chance unless you are in the game."

Indian fated to lose no matter which side he chose in Revolutionary War

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Indian ruled much of colonial America, and the colonists and the British Crown vied for their alliance. "Lose no time," Lord Dartmouth told an emissary, "in taking such steps as may induce them to take up the hatchet against His Majesty's rebellion subjects..."

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

No matter which side the Indian chose he was bound to be a loser in the American revolutionary war.

Both sides coveted his land, and both needed if not his help, then at least safety from his attack.

So it was that Lord Dartmouth urged the Iroquois to take up the hatchet against the colonists and Ethan Allen beseeched the same Indians to "come and help me fight the King's regular troops."

In the east, many tribes like the Stockbridge who joined the Minutemen against the British in the siege of Boston, considered themselves only tenants of the land.

But to the west, to the Alleg-henies and beyond, in a long arc from Maine to Florida, the Indian considered himself land-lord. To be true, many tribes had accepted King George's protection, but they nevertheless were sovereign.

King George protected them mainly from the insatiable American lust for more land. The foremost Indian complaint was the colonial jumping of tribal claims.

The colonials both ignored and despised the line the King drew along the crest of the mountains in 1763, affirmed by Parliament in 1774, limiting western expansion. And to add insult to injury, they refused being taxed to support the red-coats who enforced the edict.

Initially the Indians tried to stay out of the fight.

Prof. Francis Jennings in a soon-to-be published book, "The Invasion of America," explains that to the Indians the new war looked like the old one, the French and Indian War. He recalls the remark of a Delaware, "The English say this is all their land. The French say this is all their land. Where is the Indian's land?"

The British had the edge, however — a familiar bureaucracy in the wilderness lands and an adequate supply of trade goods, including guns and bullets, on which the Indian had become dependent.

American traders enjoyed a deservedly poor reputation among their customers. In the early 1760s one observer described them as "a shame to humanity, and the Disgrace of Christianity..." The Savages daily saw themselves cheated in Weight and Measure; their Women debauched, and their young Men corrupted.

"The reason the Indians chose the Crown's side was that they didn't want all those damn settlers spilling over the line," Jennings says. No matter, the British intended to settle middle America too — on their own terms.

In fact, they had already approved plans to establish a 14th colony, Vandania, beyond the mountains.

At any rate, the fighting that ensued was the nastiest of the war. Atrocities were no stranger to either side.

Colonial Indian Fighter

George Rogers Clark supposedly secured the entire Northwest Territory by capturing Vincennes, an Indiana outpost on the Wabash and an Indian supply base, in February 1779. That May Gen. John Sullivan, dispatched by Washington to retaliate for massacres in Pennsylvania and New York, broke the back of the Iroquois Confederation or the Six Nations in a scorched earth campaign through western New York. He leveled 40 Indian villages.

Early in the war the Cherokees were brought to heel in the South after attacks on the frontiers of Virginia and the Carolinas.

But the Americans lacked the strength to exploit their gains and consolidate control.

In the view of Prof. John Shy of the University of Michigan, a visiting professor at the Army War College in Carlisle, Pa. expert in the Revolution, Clark's victories were hollow.

Moreover, he said, the Americans couldn't take the arc of waterways formed by the upper Mississippi, the Ohio and the Great Lakes so strategically important to western dominion.

In that light the Anglo-Indian effort held the west for the King. But the King, or at least Parliament, didn't seem to care. When the Treaty of Paris was signed in 1783 formally ending the war no reference was made to the aborigines. Their territory was ceded to the United States.

The Iroquois were destroyed politically, the Cherokees were beaten, the other tribes like the Shawnee just tried to stay out of the way. Shy says.

White western expansion was inevitable, no matter which side won — and no one could find a punctuation mark to end the war.

In 1786, at what is now Rome, N.Y., the Six Nations signed a separate treaty, but the fighting and land grabbing went on. In 1794, Gen. Anthony Wayne won the battle of Fallen Timbers, near what is now Toledo, Ohio. It was the last big battle.

When the great Seneca chief, Cornstalk, visited President Washington some years after the Revolution, he could not forget the Indian caught in the white man's mill.

Could only hear voices talking about his death

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Lonnie Barnes couldn't see, feel, move or breathe. He could only hear. Hear voices. Voices talking about his death.

A muscular 26-year-old construction laborer from rural Marion, Barnes had just been given two injections of a pain killer at the Marion Memorial Hospital emergency room as a doctor prepared to take some stitches in his hand. His lungs had quit working.

Three other Marion Memorial patients suffered respiratory failure after treatment with anesthetics that were deliberately adulterated with a muscle relaxant. Investigators said Friday they are anxious to take a statement from Barnes after learning of his case.

Barnes said in an interview that he had been carving a steak for dinner Aug. 27, 1974 when a knife slipped and slashed open the web of his hand. He went to the hospital for stitches. The first injection went into the area around the cut, he said, the second directly into a vein on the back of his hand.

"I began getting numb in my legs, my feet and my arm. I lost all feeling and my muscles drew up and everything. Then it got hard to breathe. The doctor told him to relax."

"Finally I got to where I couldn't breathe," Barnes said. "I just quit breathing completely. From there my eyes fell back in my head and I couldn't do anything but hear."

Barnes said he heard the doctor say, "I think I got trouble over here." He began to push down on my chest. I began to hear a thud noise and a jerking vibration. I couldn't feel anything. I was numb, paralyzed. I thought he was hitting me in the chest. I couldn't tell."

"I give it up whenever I quit breathing," the brown-haired, blue-eyed young man said. "I just said, 'Well Lord. This is it. Here I come.'"

"I figured I was dying, you know. As long as I could think I figured I wasn't dead yet. I could hear everything that happened."

"Afterwards I began to wonder. I wonder if when people die and quit breathing and the heart stops, I wonder if you still hear them saying, 'Well, he's gone.' Man that's horrifying."

With several shots and an oxygen mask the doctor managed to bring him back. A nurse told him he'd reacted to the anesthetic. "I've had dental work and I've had both my arms broke and I knew I had had local anesthetics before," Barnes said. He couldn't understand what had happened. In September and October three patients given Procain and Blockain suffered respiratory failure. Two died. The account of the survivor is very much like Barnes'.

Mumford-Smith wedding

Miss Ethel Mumford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perle Mumford, Dixon, became the wife of Alan Lee Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith, Franklin Grove, Sept. 6 in an afternoon nuptial at the Church of the Brethren, Franklin Grove.

The Rev. Robert Roller, pastor at the church, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Melvin Fisel, Franklin Grove, accompanied soloist Mrs. Betty Waldschlager, Dixon, on the organ.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of polyester organza trimmed with nylon lace, designed with a chapel train, stand-up collar, empire bodice and bishop sleeves. A Camelot cap with lace secured her veil. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli florets, white stephanotis, yellow Sweetheart roses, blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Miss Lynn Ringler, Dixon, was maid of honor and was attired in a royal blue floor-length gown with print sheer long sleeves and a stand-up collar, made by the bride. Her bouquet combined white gladioli florets yellow pompons, yellow statice, blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath. Her headpiece matched her bouquet.

Bridesmaid was Miss Billie Smith, Franklin Grove, sister of the groom, whose attire matched the maid of honor's.

Serving as best man was Dennis Delhotal, Franklin Grove. Dan Briggs, Salt Lake City, Utah, was the groomsman. The guests were seated by Mike Richard, and Clarence Turek, both of Dixon.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Timothy Mumford, Des Plaines, served cake while Mrs. Carl Mumford, Franklin Grove and Mrs. James Mumford, Polo, poured punch and coffee.

Since their honeymoon to Kentucky Lakes, the couple has been residing at 518 E. Eighth St., Dixon.

The new Mrs. Smith is a Dixon High School graduate and is presently employed at the Dixon Veterinary Hospital. Mr. Smith is a Franklin Center High School graduate and is an employee of Ruan Leasing Co., Rockford.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS MERSHON

Eager-Mershon wedding

Miss Elfriede Gertrude Eager and Dennis Robert Mershon exchanged nuptial vows recently in the United Methodist Church in Rockford. The Rev. Kerr officiated at the afternoon service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Eager and Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Mershon, all of Evansville.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown accented with lace designed with rosebud braid and a deep gathered flounce. She carried a bouquet of white tea roses and baby's breath.

The new Mrs. Mershon attended Evansville High School and Blackhawk Tech. Mr. Mershon is a graduate of Lawton, Okla., Senior High School and attended Cameron College in Lawton. He also attended Oklahoma State University.

Following a wedding trip through the western states, the couple is at home in Broken Arrow, Okla., where Mr. Mershon is employed as a draftsman for Cooling Products there.

By FRANCES REEVES
Lee Co. Extension Adviser
Refinishing Furniture

The Home Economics Council of the Lee County Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a special interest meeting on "Refinishing Furniture" for all interested persons on Monday, October 6, Lee County 4-H Center, 9:30 a. to 3 p.m. Mrs. Verle Burhenn, manager of the gift shop at Vagabond Inn, Rochelle, will present a program on refinishing furniture and antiques. A film will be shown on "The Fun Way" to refinish furniture and antiques without stripping, sanding or sealing. All interested persons may attend the film showing. Pre-registration is required to take part in the actual refinishing of a small piece of furniture that will be done after the film showing.

A limited number of registrations will be accepted. Persons that desire to learn how to refinish a small piece of furniture may call the county extension office, 857-3525, or stop in at our office in Amboy. You will then receive information as to supplies needed.

There is no admission charge for the class, but you are expected to purchase supplies for refinishing a piece of furniture at the class.

Fashion Directions For Fall and Winter, 1975

As clothing prices continue to rise, fashion continues to emphasize more wearable and practical clothing. The separates or "pieces" approach and total use of colors are again the major emphasis in the fashion picture. This approach offers flexibility in how garments are worn and the possibility of adding "pieces" to what is already in the wardrobe. This fashion picture applies for males as well as females.

In style and design details in women and girl's clothing, two extremes in silhouettes are predominant — big, loose shape and body-hugging slim shapes. These two looks are often combined in separates to give a different approach to the layered look. There is a definite Chinese influence in design, colors and fabrics. In general, classic designs are being emphasized, skirt lengths are longer and pants continue as a choice in fashions.

Class design dress features the easy shirt and body dresses and sweater dresses continue to be predominant in fashion. The BIG LOOK is still around and is pared down from last season's chemise and tent looks. JUMPEES have been around; but when paired with turtle-neck or shirt, they take on this season's fashion look.

The new direction in styles and design are the "cinch" which refers to a variety of dresses with fullness pulled close to the body by obi sashes, ropes and cinch belts. Waistline emphasis is important, empire waist has returned. High fashion is favoring the "tube" — straight, slim lines. These simple shapes often include box or inverted pleats for movement in skirts. SENSUOUS SILHOUETTES are the direction in evening wear. Newest length emphasis is just above the ankle. Design details include flounces, ruffles and tiers.

Sportswear is showing the seater in separates for all types of wear. Styles are varied from cardigans, kimono wraps, big tops, turtle-necks, zip-jacket and sweatcoats — and the generally bigger, bulkier and longer sweater this season. Cables and fisherman knits with embroidery, jacquards, bold stripes and tweeds provide texture and color for the current look. The trend continues to longer skirt lengths. There is a wide variety of styles that include wrap-around, gathered, A-line, gored and bias flared skirts. Box pleats provide for movement in slimmer cut skirts. Tops of all types are being shown from tunics, smock tops, big-tops and blazers. Mandarin styles and dresses are working with skirts and pants. Vests continue to be important but are generally longer and often reversible. Pants are still popular in straight leg styles. The trend is toward contoured waistbands and center back zippers.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't think I am too crazy to bother with. I need your help. It's this terrible habit and it's driving me nuts. First I should tell you I am 18, a girl, lonely and very unhappy with myself.

About a year ago I began to bite the inside of my mouth and my lips. It's like biting fingernails—once you start you can't stop. I have bitten myself so hard that my mouth bleeds, scabs form and still I can't stop biting myself. I'm scared to death I'll get cancer if I don't get over this stupid habit.

Can you suggest a hypnotist? I need someone to take control of my mind and make me stop doing this terrible thing. Sign me—Ashamed And Scared

Dear Friend: Biting your mouth and lips is not the problem. It's the symptom of another problem. You need to find out why you have an uncontrollable urge to hurt yourself. A hypnotist will not provide the answer.

18-year-old who bites mouth & lips has deeper problem

I suggest a talk with your school counselor. Confide in her or him. Verbalize your feelings of loneliness and inadequacy. If you aren't comfortable with the counselor, ask your family doctor to suggest a therapist who can help you talk about your anxieties and problems. And do hurry, please. The sooner you start the better.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son's wedding is getting to be a real pain in the neck. Every day it gets worse. Here's the problem:

His future in-laws have some ritzy ideas about how a wedding should be and it is sure running into a lot of money. They seem to think it would be nice if we offered to help out with the expenses. My husband and I don't agree. Already they have asked us to take 25 people off our list of 110. Can you imagine the nerve?

We are not rich people, Ann. What's more, we have two daughters of our own to marry off within the next few years. Believe me, we have no intention of asking anybody to help us out with the expenses. Isn't it understood that the parents of the bride put on the wedding and they do whatever they can afford? Or are we crazy? Please tell it like it is.—Refuse To Be Gouged Dear R.G.: Hold your ground. You're absolutely right. Trim your list if you must but tell the bride's parents that any kind of wedding they can manage is perfectly all right with you. Let them know it's THEIR party.

Dear Ann Landers: Something has been bothering me for a long time. Maybe you can provide the answer and put my mind at ease. I am worrying about the comfort of baby kangaroos.

I'm aware that a kangaroo's pouch is a membrane attached to the animal's body designed to carry the young. I'd like to know if the pouch is fur-lined on the inside so the baby is kept warm and comfy. Can you tell me, please?—Kangaroo Fan

Dear Kang Fan: Pam Bianco from the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago says only female kangaroos have pouches. A pouch is not considered a membrane. It is merely an additional part of the skin—and alas, it is not fur-lined. But so far, I haven't heard of a single baby kangaroo who declined the ride, so it must be pretty comfy in there.

Confidential to Who Said It?: It was Will Rogers and I agree it's pretty darned funny. "On account of us being a democracy run by the people we are the only nation in the world that has to keep a government four years no matter what it does." (Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Dixon Chapter of DAR

The Dixon Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution's first regular meeting will be a luncheon Saturday at Emerald Hill Country Club, Sterling.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. J. Kennedy Kinkaid Jr., state regent, who will present a program entitled "The Prairie State Speaks." Mrs. Kinkaid joined DAR in 1955 and has served her chapter on various committees and two terms as regent. She was state chairman of the Good Citizen Committee, state registrar and was elected state regent in March, 1975.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Vest and Mrs. Morey Pires.

MRS. KINCAID

American Assn. University Women

The Dixon area American Association of University Women met recently for a dinner meeting at the Loveland Community House with 33 members and guests in attendance.

Mrs. Judith Willard, conducted the business meeting following the buffet which featured regional American foods.

It was announced that the AAUW Fall Regional Conference will be in Galesburg Oct. 4. Any member may attend this meeting.

The first meeting of the Book Review group will be held at 2 p.m. Oct. 15 in the home of Mrs. Freya Lazier, 203 E. McKenney Street.

Mrs. Mary Cox, program chairman, introduced the three speakers who talked about the position of women in their respective native countries.

Mrs. Ruth Christopherson, R.N., is the wife of Dr. Christopherson in Sterling, and is the mother of five children. The Christophersons lived in S. Africa from 1953 to 1965 at McCord Zulu Hospital. Mrs. Christopherson reviewed the position of the several classes of the people who live in S. Africa.

Mrs. Anna Backersweski, psychologist at the D.D.C., is a native of Poland. She was educated at the University of Lodz and spent six years in the Polish underground during W.W. II.

Mrs. Maria Wiclawek, a radiologic technician at DDC, also is a native of Poland and received her education in Grodnow. She spent three years in a Russian prison and "survived."

These women revealed interesting facts about Polish history. They emphasized that women in Poland today have equal status with men. If they possess the ability, women can enter any business or profession they desire.

They also discussed their lives as young women during the war years. Each have returned for visits to their homelands and expressed to the group their appreciation for the freedom of the United States.

A question-and-answer period followed the talks.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Betty Ottwell, Miss Harriet Wiltberger, Mrs. Ruth Merrick, Miss Regina Kyker, Mrs. Kathy Yount, Miss Ruth Bollman, and Miss Dorothy Armington.

UMW fall luncheon

The United Methodist Women's Fall Luncheon will be held Thursday in the church dining room.

The featured speaker will be Mrs. Lorraine Smith, Chicago, wife, mother and grandmother, and presently Bishop Paul Washburn's secretary. She is also chairperson of the Conference Christian Social Involvement for Northern Illinois.

Mrs. Smith was affiliated with the social service department of the University of Chicago for 18 years, and seven of them she spent as secretary to the dean. Mrs. Smith will speak on "Christian Faith Amid Pluralism."

Hostesses for the event will be the members of Deborah, Sarah and Naomi Circles.

A nursery will be provided.

Young Mothers Club

The Young Mothers Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Thomas Engel. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Eck spoke on "Marriage Encounter-Weekend for Good Marriages."

Mrs. Walter Reynolds was welcomed as a new member.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Stouffer and her committee, Mrs. Larry Reed and Mrs. Garry Ortgiesen.

Questers

Questers Nachusa Chapter will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Clarence Wilson, 1114 Franklin Grove Rd., Dixon. Mrs. John A. Bothe will present the program, "Old Mills."

Mothers of WW II

Mothers of WW II will hold a business meeting at the Loveland Community Building Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

Legion Auxiliary

American Legion Auxiliary will meet at the Legion Hall Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Ace-king rule helps slam bid

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Jim: "How did you happen to think of the rule of the ace and the king?"

Oswald: "In the early Thirties slam bidding was a hit-or-miss proposition. I wanted a simple rule to tell when to invite or actually bid a slam. I came up with the idea that any time you could take a king out of your hand and still have enough for game, you should think of a slam and possibly make a mild slam invitation. If you could take out an ace, you should definitely invite a slam. And if you could take out an ace and a king, you should bid the slam."

Jim: "I assume the bidding in the box shows this rule in operation. South would surely bid four spades without the ace of diamonds. So he invites the slam by bidding four diamonds."

If North signed off at four spades South would probably give up."

Oswald: "Right. But North cue bids in hearts and now South invites the slam strongly by bidding five spades. He doesn't use Blackwood because he isn't worried about aces. North has his full values and goes on to the lay-down six. 29 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-679: Marcia Q., aged 20, is a journalism student. "Dr. Crane," she asked after my lecture to her class, "what is the psychological formula for an interesting story?"

"And what are the basic interests of human beings?"
Suspense Secrets

Many of you readers have seen the movie, and later its TV presentation, of "The African Queen."

It depicted an exotic African locale, with a feuding couple, intertwined with an attempt to torpedo a German destroyer on the inland African lake.

Katherine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart were the leading characters.

She was of missionary background while he was a rough and ready operator of a battered little steamboat.

That scenario illustrates an excellent formula for a romantic plot, since it:

(1) Paired a hero and heroine who at the outset seemed hostile and argumentative;

(2) In an exotic locale, with mosquitoes and leeches, storms and a broken down engine to complicate their African voyage;

(3) Plus the further suspenseful element of possible capture by an inland German destroyer;

(4) Followed by their futile attempt to torpedo the German ship;

(5) Then their capture and scheduled execution, a couple of minutes after they had coaxed the German ship Captain to marry them before they died;

(6) Finally, a dramatic and unexpected torpedo blast that sank the German ship, leaving hero and heroine swimming to shore, where they were happy ever after!

Self-preservation and love are the two major motivational forces but they have all sort of variations.

To create maximum suspense, don't start with your hero and heroine obviously compatible and destined for a quick, uneventful courtship.

For then there is little suspense.

Instead, launch your story with the hero and heroine spiteful or almost hating each other, for then you gain a double dramatic impact at the breakdown of their animosity and its replacement with the heroine melting in the hero's arms.

It is much the same double impact that a public speaker obtains by alternating a pathetic episode with a humorous story.

For then the speaker obtains what we call the "rebound phenomenon."

An audience laughs more hilariously at a joke that follows the lump in the throat and aching heart previously felt at hearing a story that plucks our heartstrings and brings tears to our eyes.

The same "rebound" mechanism thus helps make a love story far more interesting if you start off with the main characters in conflict.

For conflict and competition are strong motivational forces with human beings, whether in business, on the gridiron or in romance.

But don't "tell" the emotional experiences of your characters but let their own behavior and dialogue advance the plot.

Your characters are supposed to "show" in their own behavior the advancing dramatic suspense, instead of being puppets for the author's masterminding of how they feel or act!

So, go to your library and consult Chapter 12 in our college textbook "Psychology Applied" for it more fully covers the "Psychology of Writing and Art."

Or, send for the booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Seeks new trial in reckless homicide

OREGON— A motion for a new trial has been filed here on behalf of Robert Schaffer, 52, Oregon, sentenced to one year periodic imprisonment on convictions for reckless homicide and failure to report a fatality accident within 48 hours. Schaffer was sentenced Sept. 19 by Circuit Judge Thomas E. Hornsby after being found guilty at the conclusion of a week-long bench trial. Judge Hornsby ordered Schaffer to spend 52 weekends in Ogle County jail. He was also granted three years conditional discharge, a type of non-reporting probation, and loss of driver's license for an indefinite period.

The charges stem from the death of Nancy Reid, Chana, killed in August 1974 after being struck by a car outside Rochelle. A coroner's report said the girl remained in a roadside ditch for more than four hours before death occurred.

The motion claims Schaffer was not proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and exhibits and testimony were admitted to evidence which were of no relevance to the case. Attorneys claimed, in the motion for new trial, testimony was allowed which indicated Schaffer had fallen asleep while driving in prior accidents and exhibits in connection with gouge marks, white paint found on a car and red glass were admitted when there was no showing they were connected with the victim, a bicycle, Schaffer or his car.

Schaffer's attorney, William Fearer, argued at the sentencing hearing his client's behavior is such that probation alone would be sufficient punishment. Each of the felony convictions allows for imprisonment of up to three years in a penitentiary, a fine up to $10,000, or probation.

Nally was released on bond to appear in court Oct. 16.

Tire squealing brings arrest

Patrick Nally, 19, Franklin Grove, was arrested in Franklin Grove Saturday evening and charged with reckless driving. The arrest was precipitated by a complaint from John E. Murphy that Nally was squealing his tires in front of the Murphy residence. Skid marks measuring 60 feet were reported.

Nally was released on bond to appear in court Oct. 16.

Amboy incident brings arrest

Charges of assault, disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property were filed against Donald E. McCarver, 20, 509 S. Galena Ave., following an incident in Amboy Saturday afternoon. Donald Arbuckle, Amboy, notified deputies that McCarver had threatened him with a switchblade and had broken down a door at the Arbuckle residence. Deputies released McCarver on bond. He is to make an appearance in circuit court Oct. 16.

CB radio is reported stolen

A citizen's band radio, valued at $150, was stolen Saturday morning from a pickup truck parked at the Lee County 4-H Center. Clair Plotner, Kewanee, told sheriff's deputies that his radio was taken as the truck was parked at the west end of the grounds.

Allen condition is unchanged

Blaine Allen, rural Ashton, a member of the Lee County Board from District 2, is reported in an unchanged and serious condition today with encephalitis in Itasca Memorial Hospital, Grand Rapids, Minn. Hospital officials reported Allen was not responding to treatment. Allen was admitted to the hospital while vacationing in Minnesota but it was believed he contracted the disease in Illinois over the Labor Day weekend. Allen, a former chairman of the Lee County Board, is chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee for the board. A farmer, he also serves as Reynolds Township Supervisor.

Treated after one-car crash

A rural Dixon man was treated and released from KSB Hospital after he was injured in a Saturday morning accident. Richard T. Miller, 22, Rt. 1, was eastbound on Ill. 38. Miller told sheriff's deputies that as he attempted to turn left onto Sink Hollow Road, his brakes failed. He missed the turn and his car left the road, striking a cattle crossing. Miller's Datsun convertible was extensively damaged. No tickets were issued.

Bicycle stolen

A bicycle, although chained for security near Dawson coin laundry, was stolen Sunday morning. Dorothy Cunningham reported that her son's yellow 10-speed bike disappeared. The bike was valued at $89.

Lane questioned probe of JFK assassination from start

union leader's job and subsequently the attorney general of Illinois moved in because of Ruby's organized-crime background.

Lane says he thinks Ruby was hired by the FBI to kill Oswald, another FBI employee.

In his later lecture at the college, he said witnesses were interviewed by the Warren Commission who said Ruby walked into the police garage the morning he killed Oswald without being challenged. Other witnesses say they saw Ruby ride down in a separate elevator with the assistant police chief, but were not interviewed. Those witnesses claim Ruby's gun was very visible in his hip pocket, Lane contends.

In his lecture he says witnesses put Ruby in the hospital when JFK and Gov. John Connally were brought in. Even Ruby's sister identified his coat, and made the statement to the commission that it "could have been someone else, if he wore Jack's clothes and had a first name of Jack." The commission report on her testimony only says she testified it could have been someone else, without the rest of the statement.

Lane leaves the impression that he thinks it was Ruby who planted the bullet which was found on a stretcher in the hospital. Lane says the stretcher where the bullet was found was not one used to carry either JFK or Connally into the hospital.

The lecture deals with information which most people are long familiar with, that there were companion assassins on the hill in front of the motorcade. It goes into minute detail of the now-famous Zapruder film which showed the President and Connally being hit by bullets. Lane uses the films and interviews with witnesses to add credence to his multiple-assassin theory.

He called the Warren Commission report 36 volumes of "mostly trash."

It included such trivia as several pages on the dental records of Jack Ruby's mother, which, Lane says, "wouldn't be relevant even if Ruby had chewed Oswald to death."

He contends that 90 per cent of the relevant evidence in the case is still classified.

The original autopsy reports have been burned. Other autopsy material, such as photos of the body, X-rays, tissue slides and even the mangled brain of President Kennedy were sent to the National Archives, he said. Robert Kennedy said he wanted the material made available to serious researchers, Lane asserts. The first man to get permission from Senator Kennedy for a study of the autopsy materials found key photographs of the body, key X-rays, tissue slides and even the preserved brain missing. No one knows what happened to them, says Lane.

A new crime technique, described as neutron activation analysis, is so accurate it could have told the exact course of the bullet in the brain, Lane says. That type of analysis was said to have been used recently on one of Napoleon's hairs and it revealed he was poisoned.

The CIA destroyed tapes of speeches by Oswald in Mexico City, Lane further alleges.

Lane is hopeful the latest revelations and the recent stories about FBI and CIA activities will trigger more demands for reopening of the investigation.

The Warren Commission had no investigatory force of its own, rather relied on FBI and CIA information. Lane even attacked the character of the commission, saying it was headed by a former Chief Justice; had two southern Democrats; a Republican, Gerald R. Ford (now President); a banker and the CIA chief.

"There wasn't a soul there to represent the great majority of people," he stated.

Freed and Lane both laugh at suggestions they are using criticism of the assassination investigations for personal gain. Reminded they and other critics like them had been branded as "buckchasers" and "scavengers," they were emphatic that they aren't lining their pockets.

Freed says all but his bare expenses go to the CCI. He is almost its sole supporter. Freed says he is making about one-third of what he would as a teacher. He, too, is a contributor to CCI. Both men related they drive 1965-model cars and both say they do not live lavishly.

"The ones who really made money are the ones who supported the Warren Commission report," Lane explained. "William Manchester's book, backing the Warren report, was the only one to make a million."

"At least one Warren Commission member profited by being on the panel," he added. "Gerald R. Ford sold his story to Life magazine for $5,000. He later combined with a Michigan public relations man named John R. Stiles to write a book on the subject. The pair tried to sell the book to the publishing firm of Simon and Schuster, for $13,000. They were told it was too dry. Ford offered to beef it up with some top-secret documents and he did so and the deal was made."

Lane alleges that when Ford was later nominated as vice president, Senate probes asked him if he had ever released top-secret documents, and he said no. They reminded him of the documents in the book and he passed the whole thing off as a misunderstanding. Despite their publication in the book, the documents to this day are still classified as top secret, Lane asserts.

Both men have been the subject of death threats. Lane reports at least 250 threats against his life. "I don't know what to do with them, so I just put them in a death-threat file," he stated.

Joschko
WALNUT—Mrs. Hanna Dimmig Joschko, 88, died Sunday at the Lee County Nursing Home.

She was born Aug. 15, 1887, in Tremont, the daughter of Frederick and Katharine (Warner) Dimmig and was married to John Joschko at Peoria in 1910.

Her husband, one daughter, four sisters, and six brothers preceded her in death. A brother, John, died 11 hours after her death on Sunday.

Survivors include two grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Ross Funeral Home, Walnut. The Rev. Henry Stamm will officiate. Burial will be in the Walnut Cemetery. There will be no visitation.

John Dimmig

John Dimmig, 86, formerly of Harmon, died Sunday at the Lee County Nursing Home.

He was born May 30, 1889, in Pekin, the son of Frederick J. and Katharine (Warner) Dimmig and was married to the former Clara Hansen, Jan. 19, 1914, in Michigan. Dimmig had been a member of the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Amboy, and a charter member of the Lee County Farm Bureau.

His wife, one son, six brothers and five sisters preceded him in death, including one sister, Mrs. Hanna Dimmig Joschko, who died only 11 hours before him.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Brill and Mrs. Roy (Mary) Hicks, both of Harmon; and Mrs. Kathryn Lusz, Dixon; two sons, Raymond, Harmon; and Donald, Amboy; 16 grandchildren, 36 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the Chapel Hill Funeral Home. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Memorial Park. Visitation will be after 2 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home where the family will be present from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

A memorial has been established to the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Amboy.

Fire call leads to arrest

A 21-year-old Dixon man was placed under arrest by Lee County Sheriff's Deputy Michael J. Koppin, on a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge stemmed from a fire call to the Delbert Dewey farm Sunday morning in rural Dixon, which Koppin answered. As Koppin was helping remove livestock from a burning barn, he noticed an unconscious man in the barn. The man was identified as Mark J. Krebsbach, currently residing at Memri Motel. Krebsbach is believed to have started the fire.

Krebsbach has been released on bond to appear in court Oct. 16.

Collision brings traffic ticket

A two-car collision Sunday evening in Dixon resulted in the issuance of a traffic citation to Timothy A. Hackbarth, 25, 315 E. Sixth St.

Hackbarth was charged with failure to yield at a stop intersection. He was southbound on Lowell Park Road and had stopped his car at the intersection of Galena Avenue. Hackbarth then pulled into the intersection, striking the car of Laverne E. Kitzmiller, 702 N. Washington Ave., which was headed toward Dixon on Galena Avenue.

Nelson man accused

Lee County Sheriff's deputies arrested John Williamson Sr., 58, Nelson, and charged him with disorderly conduct. The charge stemmed from a complaint signed by his wife, Lorene, that he had threatened to damage family furnishings at their Nelson residence. Williamson was released on bond and is to appear in court Oct. 16.

Near crash leads to charges

Dixon Police placed Douglas Boyd Corning under arrest early Sunday morning following a near-collision involving Corning's car and an emergency vehicle.

School referendum Saturday in Amboy

AMBOY — The Board of Education will be seeking approval of the issuing of $730,000 in special building bonds at a referendum to be held in Amboy Community School District Saturday. The funds will be used to remodel the junior high school building.

The architectural firm of Berger Kelly and Associates has set the total cost of the project at $1,069,000. In July the district received a grant offer from the State Capital Development Board for $389,568 or 36.5 per cent of the total cost with the local district to provide the remaining funds.

At a special meeting held Aug. 5, the board members approved revised architectural plans which proposed exterior renovation at $112,930, interior remodeling and renovation $313,547, new equipment and lockers $78,300; electrical remodeling $143,069, plumbing remodeling $82,132, heating and ventilation remodeling $89,231 plus installation of baseboard heating and individual classroom control of ventilating system in the old part of the building at $55,000. There will be a 10 per cent add on for the architect's fees and an additional 10 per cent allowed for inflation costs.

The exterior renovation proposed included: installation of counter flashing at the roof edge and some roof repairs, tuck pointing the outside walls, installation of all steel doors and frames on the exterior of the building, 67 new aluminium windows and frames with closure above the new windows, two paraplegic ramps, one at the north front entrance and at the gym entrance; new main entrance and platform and stairs, removal of existing fire escapes in the front of the building.

The interior remodeling considered: Installation of two corridor ramps for paraplegics, lowering of ceilings in old section of the building and installation of acoustical panel ceilings, new steel stairway construction, and stairwell enclosure to the second floor, new fire - rated partition and doors on the second floor, smoke stop walls and doors across the corridors; media center remodeling will include making certain classrooms larger will include an elevated library area, a ramp for paraplegics to provide access to west side classrooms, removal of some walls to make larger classrooms. Refurbishing of locker rooms, both boys and girls locker rooms; remodel of administrative office; repair boiler room shut and walls, new door and stairs, new physical education instructors office, provide small ensemble practice room, knock out airshafts in five classrooms to provide additional classroom space.

The plumbing costs would include new fixtures in several restroom and shower rooms, also in the teacher's lounge and the physical education instructors' office, new fixtures in the home economics room, new lab sinks in the science room, new fire extinguishers, and new drinking fountains.

The electrical renovation would include new lighting fixtures and wiring in the lobby, locker rooms, arts and craft room, classrooms in north and south wings shop area and drafting room, also in the cafeteria and office.

The new equipment proposed includes, 120 new lockers, some items for arts and craft, music storage equipment, homemaking equipment, some science units, 80 new box type lockers in the PE department and some new furnishings in the administration office.

Voting will be in the six usual polling places from 1 to 7 p.m., Saturday with all registered voters of the district eligible to vote.

State Police study is completed for ILEC

STERLING — A comprehensive and in-depth study of the Illinois State Police conducted by the management consulting firm, Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., has been completed and formally presented to Illinois Department of Law Enforcement Director Harvey N. Johnson Jr., and State Police Superintendent Dwight E. Pitman.

The study was funded in part by an ILEC (Illinois Law Enforcement Commission) Grant and was undertaken to provide Pitman and his staff with an objective look at the current levels of service and the potential for expanding the State Police role in the future.

The consulting firm reported that the Illinois State Police is a strong, disciplined organization with a sound record of service to the public. They were, however, quick to point out that "there are pressing needs in the state which the State Police are ideally suited to meet." Major recommendations in the report include: expanding the division's role in criminal investigation, the creation of three new districts, the closing or upgrading to district status all subposts (there currently are six) and the closing of one line district facility.

Capt. David Pearson, commanding District 1 headquarters in Sterling, reported that if District 1 was phased out, as has been suggested, it will be divided into three other districts.

Whiteside County would become part of the Rock Island District. Lee County would join the La Salle District and Ogle County would be taken into the Rockford District.

It was also recommended that the State Police reorganize its top management structure by establishing an appointive rank of Lt. Colonel and an expansion of personnel from the present 1,700 to 2,500 troopers and technical or civilian employees in the next five years.

"This independent study provides us with an opportunity to take a long hard look at ourselves," said Pitman. "My staff and I will review the report in detail to identify those changes which can be made immediately and those that will require more time and perhaps legislation to implement. We have already acted upon a recommendation to combine our two districts now serving Cook County into one larger and better organized unit."

The consulting firm has conducted several research projects pertaining to law enforcement bodies in Illinois and other states based its report on an in-depth study of the Division and the differences in the role it is called on to perform in various areas of the state. The firm's representatives talked to other state agencies, as well as county and local law enforcement officials, State's Attorneys and court officials in order to gain the perspective of the State Police they needed.

Director Johnson stated, "The study conducted for the State Police will provide us with valuable information for planning the future growth of that organization. It provides the basic information which we need to enable us to give the best possible service to the public."

Ticketed in Rochelle crash

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Police Department investigated a two-car accident Sunday at Lincoln Highway and Tenth Avenue.

According to reports, an auto operated by Leonard Jackson, 28, Hillcrest, was eastbound on Tenth Avenue. After stopping at the intersection, the Jackson auto continued eastbound and was struck by a vehicle operated by Davis McGill, 16, Ashton. The McGill car was northbound on Lincoln Highway at the time of the collision. Jackson was ticketed by police with failure to yield.

Looking North

In autumn, 1775, two American forces headed north with instructions from Commander-in-Chief George Washington of the Continental Army to seize certain areas of Canada. Since some Americans felt that Canadians might be enlisted to help in the Revolution, the forces were ordered to treat captives as "friends and brethren," rather than as enemies. Colonel Benedict Arnold led one expedition. The second force marched under General Philip Schuyler. However, a case of gout forced Schuyler to turn his command over to a one-time member of Parliament and former British officer. The new commander was killed December 31st, 1775, during an unsuccessful attack on Quebec.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the American general who led Schuyler's forces into Canada?

Liquor charges against 5 drivers over weekend

Area law enforcement officials made five arrests over the weekend on liquor charges involving traffic violations.

Danae J. Wendel, 19, 414 S. Hennepin Ave., was charged by Dixon police with driving while intoxicated, illegal transportation of liquor with a broken seal, disobeying a traffic signal, and refusal to take a breathalyzer test following an accident Saturday evening at the intersection of Galena Avenue and River Street.

A car driven by Duane C. Nelson, 20, Rt. 4, was southbound on Galena Avenue in the inside lane and proceeded through a green light. The Nelson vehicle struck Wendel's car after Wendel's vehicle illegally entered the intersection from River Street, after the traffic light turned red.

Wendel was being held in jail. She was to appear in court today.

Auxier Wright, 53, of Shefield, was arrested by Lee County Sheriff's deputies Sunday morning on charges of driving while intoxicated, illegal transportation of liquor and speeding. Deputies reported that, during routine patrol, they noticed a blue Chevrolet traveling 80 miles per hour on Amboy Road, east of Ill. 26. When the car was stopped, an open beer can was found on the car's floor. Wright refused to take a breathalyzer test.

Warren K. Anderson, 46, St. Charles, was charged with driving while intoxicated after sheriff's deputies came across his car which was in a ditch off of Mormon Road near U.S. 52. Shortly after deputies arrived, Anderson returned to the scene with a wrecker. Deputies reported that Anderson appeared to be intoxicated but refused to take a breathalyzer test.

William R. Gossage, 44, 712 Madison Ave., was picked up early this morning by sheriff's deputies who accused him of driving while intoxicated and illegal transportation of liquor. Deputies stated that they noticed Gossage driving erratically on Sterling Road just west of Amboy. He was released on bond pending an Oct. 10 court appearance.

Paul Holmes, 23, 1321 Woodlawn Ave., was arrested by police on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. The arrest was made at the Grant City parking lot on Saturday morning. Two open beer bottles were found in Holmes's car. He was held in jail pending arraignment. Holmes is also being sought by Cook County authorities who have issued a petition revoking his probation there.

Dynamite in car

OREGON — Bobby Lovvorn, 34, was being held in Ogle County jail today after sheriff's deputies found six sticks of dynamite in the trunk of his car.

Crash sends 2 to hospital

OREGON — Two persons were hospitalized Saturday following an accident on Ill. 2, five miles south of here.

Taken to KSB Hospital were Janice E. Lungstrom, 36, DeKalb, a passenger in her car, Rockard Patterson, 44, Rochelle.

According to Ogle County Sheriff's Deputies, Lungstrom was traveling south when her auto left the pavement and struck an embankment before returning to the roadway and coming to rest in the southbound lane.

Both were released from the hospital following treatment. No tickets were issued.

The Oregon man is charged with possession of explosives and explosive devices.

Deputies arrested Lovvorn after answering a family disturbance call. Linda Lovvorn told authorities she and her husband were quarreling and he threatened to blow up the house.

Lovvorn was located by Oregon Police and sheriff's deputies at an area tavern and placed under arrest. He was scheduled to appear in court today.

Bills tie Steelers in knots

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

O.J. Simpson tied one of Jim Brown's myriad National Football League records — and the Buffalo Bills tied the Pittsburgh Steelers up in knots.

Simpson, who made a habit two years ago of piling up 200-plus-yard games en route to his 2,003-yard monster that shattered Jim Brown's single-season record of 1,863 yards, got his act together Sunday for the second straight week.

He turned the Steel Curtain defense into scrap iron, rambling for a mind-boggling 227 yards — 88 of them on a touchdown jaunt — for his fourth 200-yard game, matching a mark set by the phenomenal Brown.

And it gave him an even 400 yards in two games, a performance which — even this early in the 14-game season — has people buzzing about his possibly shattering the 2,000-yard mark again.

Simpson's stampeding through the Steelers' supposedly invincible line and Joe Ferguson's touchdown passes of seven yards to Reuben Gant and 28 yards to Bob Chandler led the Bills to a 30-21 victory over the defending Super Bowl champions. Simpson's big third-quarter run broke open the game, giving the Bills a 23-0 lead. They were bogged down on their own 12-yard line when he took a handoff on a third-and-one, swung to the outside and flitted down the right sideline.

Franco Harris bulled in twice from one yard out for two of the Steelers' belated touchdowns.

Cowboys 37, Cardinals 31
"It was the most exciting game I've ever been in," said Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, whose three-yard scoring pass to Billy Joe Dupree with 7:53 gone in sudden-death overtime beat the Cards.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart and returned it 38 yards to the Cardinal 37-yard line to set up the winning touchdown.

Hart pitched four touchdown passes for St. Louis, the last a 37-yarder to Mel Gray with 46 seconds to go to send the game into a fifth period.

Rams 23, 49ers 14
Tom Dempsey's 51-yard field goal, which matched a Los Angeles team distance record and, James Harris' first touchdown pass of the season — 22 yards to Lawrence McCutcheon — enabled the Rams to rally from a 14-3 halftime deficit and beat San Francisco.

Raiders 31, Colts 29
Cornerback Neal Colzie returned four Baltimore punts for 104 yards, three of them setting up scores, and ran 38 yards with a fourth-quarter interception that helped Oakland overhaul and stave off the upstart Colts.

Jets 30, Chiefs 24
John Riggins ran for 145 yards and two touchdowns and Carl Garrett tacked on 135 yards and a score in the Jets' victory over Kansas City.

Redskins 49, Giants 13
A defensive line that sacked New York quarterbacks eight times and two touchdown strikes apiece by Billy Kilmer and Randy Johnson highlighted Washington's walloping of the Giants.

Dolphins 22, Patriots 14
Don Nottingham, promoted to the starting lineup after Larry Csonka defected to the World Football League, broke loose for 120 yards — all but 15 of them in the second half, to wake up the Dolphins, who spotted New England a 14-0 lead on a pair of Neil Graft touchdown passes.

Vikings 42, Browns 10
Fran Tarkenton passed for two touchdowns — 29 yards to John Gilliam and 13 yards to Chuck Foreman — and ran two yards for another score in Minnesota's mauling of the Browns.

Oilers 33, Chargers 17
Defensive lineman Curley Culp scored his first pro touchdown in eight years, running 38 yards with a Jesse Freitas fumble on the opening play of the fourth quarter to lock up the Oilers' victory over San Diego. Running backs Ronnie Coleman and Don Hardeman each rushed for more than 100 yards and scored a touchdown for Houston.

Bengals 21, Saints 0
Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns — 52 and five yards to Isaac Curtis and 14 yards to Charley Joiner — in the Bengals' silencing of New Orleans. Anderson played three quarters and completed 17 of 22 passes for 203 yards.

Lions 17, Falcons 14
Detroit converted fourth-down gambles on two touchdown drives and tripped the Falcons on Albie Taylor's one-yard plunge with barely a minute to play.

"I just had that feeling," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano said of his fourth-down gambling. "I'm just built that way — to take chances."

With crucial pass receptions

Payton leads Bears win

CHICAGO (AP)—The stadium where the Chicago Bears play football is named Soldier Field, but now some fans, their thirst for a hometown victory finally slaked, are calling it Payton Place.

Walter Payton, Chicago's No. 1 draft choice, carried 21 times for 95 yards and caught six passes for 36 Sunday as he led the Bears to a 15-13 come-from-behind victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in a National Football League game.

It was a big change from last week's defeat in which Baltimore keyed on the rookie from Jackson State and held him to zero yards. This time Payton, although plagued by penalties, grabbed two Gary Huff passes in the winning drive to set up a 26-yard Bob Thomas field goal with eight seconds remaining.

"I didn't feel any pressure because they were calling penalties against me," the soft-spoken and reserved Payton said afterward. "I just felt pressure because the clock was running down and we were trying to get into field goal position."

Huff, who got a start after Bobby Douglass bogged down against the Colts, was awarded the game ball and, coach Jack Pardee said, will go next week against Minnesota. The third-year pro from Florida State hit on 19 of 27 passes for 181 yards and one interception.

Huff had high praise for Payton. "He came through unbelievably in that last drive," he said.

"When they take away something," he commented on Philadelphia's defense, "they have to give you something else. They gave me my running backs."

Grinning, the 6-foot-1, 194-pound Huff scoffed at suggestions that he lacks the toughness required of a starting quarterback in the NFL.

"I took the hardest hits in high school where I didn't have the protection," he said. "If I can complete every pass and take a licking afterward, I don't care. It's worth it."

Wesleyan is 2-0

Illinois Wesleyan continued to look impressive in College Conference of Illinois-Wisconsin play as the Titans mounted a strong running game Saturday for a 28-17 victory over Carroll.

Carroll was expected to challenge for the title this season but has yet to win in two conference starts. The victory puts Wesleyan's record at 2-0 in the CCIW.

Carthage kept pace Saturday with Wesleyan, last year's co-champions, with a 7-0 defeat of winless North Park.

Preseason favorite Milliken evened its conference record at 1-1 in a 48-6 romp over Elmhurst, which also is looking for its first CCIW victory. The win ties Milliken with an Augustana squad that beat Milliken last week but was upset 16-8 Saturday by North Central, now 1-0 in the conference.

Wesleyan's senior tailback Gary Vicini led the attack with 128 yards on 17 carries in a game that saw four different Wesleyan players cross the endline.

The ground game netted two scores as halfback Dana Just hit from three yards out and Kurt Swearingen rolled in on a 16-yard jaunt. Quarterback Steve Thompson connected with John Boyles on a 26-yard scoring strike and Mike Spong returned an intercepted pass 30 yards for another touchdown.

Milliken, which led 34-0 at halftime, came alive under the stewardship of quarterback Mike Rockford, who ran for two touchdowns and threw for three others.

Wheaton was smothered by Hope 30-9 in a nonconference game Saturday night.

In other state football action Saturday, only Western Illinois remained unbeaten by defeating Youngstown 20-19. Youngstown's unsuccessful two-point conversion attempt with 11 seconds left preserved the victory for Western Illinois, now 3-0.

Northern Illinois won its first game against two defeats by shutting out Western Michigan 20-0, and Eastern Illinois tied Southwest Missouri 7-7. But East Carolina destroyed Southern Illinois 41-7, Marshall rolled over Illinois State 36-3, Iowa Wesleyan downed Illinois College 14-6 and Northland defeated Northeastern Illinois 12-6.

Elsewhere, Coe knocked off Lake Forest 44-21, Knox beat Carleton 32-24, Grand Valley handed Benedictine 31-6, Lakeland edged Eureka 7-6, Chicago lost to Beloit 34-14 and Olivet squeaked by Monmouth 21-20.

The Lincoln Cardinals defeated the Madison Tigers 20-0 Saturday at A. C. Bowers Field.

Lincoln's first touchdown was scored on a quarterback sneak by Todd Pitman. Dave Apple tallied the next six-pointer on a 40-yard run, with Pitman then hitting end DeWayne MacRunnels with a 25-yard aerial to wrap up the scoring. Lincoln will now meet Jefferson Tuesday night. Both teams are 3-0 and neither has been scored upon.

Cowpokes win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The grumbling is starting over that powerhouse college team from Oklahoma. No, not the Oklahoma Sooners; would you believe the Oklahoma State Cowpokes?

The Cowpokes, nee Oklahoma Aggies, have played second fiddle to the University of Oklahoma on the football field for so long — they trail the intrastate series 53-10-6 — that it's headline-making news when they steal the spotlight from the mighty Sooners ... as they did over the weekend.

While No. 1-ranked Oklahoma was having its hands full in a hard-earned 20-17 triumph over Miami of Florida, 17th-ranked Oklahoma State also ran its record to 3-0 by ripping North Texas State 61-7.

Hayden Fry, like most coaches, wasn't used to being crushed by the Cowpokes.

"They're a great football team," a bitter Fry said. "I've been coaching for 25 years and have never seen anything like that. I really don't want to comment on it. They rubbed it in. I guess that's okay if that's what you want to do."

What especially galled Fry was OSU's running off several plays in the closing seconds without taking time to huddle after throwing two sideline passes to stop the clock. Freshman Steve Stephens eventually scored on a one-yard plunge.

Fry was so upset he said he "considered not going out to shake hands" with OSU's Jim Stanley, who explained that his second team "wanted to work on the two-minute offense at the end."

Meanwhile, second-ranked Ohio State posed a serious threat to Oklahoma's lead in this week's Associated Press ratings with a 32-7 victory over North Carolina as Archie Griffin rushed for 157 yards — his 24th consecutive regular-season 100-yard game — and broke Rex Kern's school total offense record while fullback Pete Johnson scored all five touchdowns on short runs.

Punt returns of 47 and 68 yards by Danny Reece set up two touchdowns and helped third-ranked Southern California defeat Purdue 19-6. Fourth-ranked Nebraska swamped Texas Christian 56-14 as Terry Luck flipped three short touchdown passes.

Missouri, ranked fifth, rallied to beat Wisconsin 27-21 on a 66-yard pass play from Steve Piskiewicz to Henry Marshall, who earlier caught an 11-yard scoring toss from tailback Tony Galbreath. Earl Campbell rushed for 198 yards and two touchdowns and Marty Atkins added 114 yards to lead No. 6 Texas over Texas Tech 42-18 in the Southwest Conference opener.

Dan Devine, Notre Dame's new coach, made his debut in South Bend and gave the home folks a hint that he might be almost as brilliant as Rockne, Leahy and Parseghian. With the seventh-ranked Fighting Irish trailing Northwestern 7-0, Devine brought Joe Montana off the bench and the sophomore quarterback scored one touchdown and passed for another in rallying the Irish to a 31-7 triumph.

Bubba Bean gained 158 yards on just 12 carries and scored twice as eighth-ranked Texas A&M walloped Illinois 43-13. Michigan, ranked ninth, needed Gordon Bell's second touchdown of the game to gain a 14-14 standoff with Baylor, the second consecutive tie for both teams.

UCLA, No. 10, blew a 13-3 halftime lead and settled for a 20-20 deadlock with winless Air Force. Alabama, No. 11, romped for the second week in a row, this one a 40-7 rout of Vanderbilt as Richard Todd engineered three first-half scoring drives. The outcome left the powerful Southeastern Conference without an undefeated team.

Twelfth-ranked Penn State trimmed Iowa 30-10 as John Andrews passed for a 70-yard touchdown and set up another score with a 75-yard pass play.

Odds favor Reds

By BERT ROSENTHAL
 AP Sports Writer

The odds will be in favor of the Cincinnati Reds but tradition will be against them when they open the best-of-five National League playoffs at home Saturday against the Pittsburgh Pirates. They don't seem too concerned about the tradition angle.

Since the playoff system began in 1969, no NL team opening at home has won the series. This year, the first two games will be at Cincinnati, on Saturday and Sunday, with the last three scheduled at Pittsburgh, Oct. 7-9.

"I can't say if there's a jinx," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Sunday after the Reds had finished the regular season with a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves and were established by Las Vegas oddsmakers as 3-2 favorites against the Pirates. "It's just crazy the way it's worked out. There couldn't be any other answer."

The Reds finished with 108 victories—the third highest total in NL history. Only the 1906 Chicago Cubs, with 116 victories, and the 1909 Pirates, with 110, did better.

In other NL finales, New York's Tom Seaver was credited with his 22nd victory—tops in the league—as the Mets held off the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4; the Chicago Cubs outslugged the Montreal Expos 9-6; the San Francisco Giants downed the San Diego Padres and 20game winner Randy Jones 5-3, and the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2.

In Cincinnati's final competitive tuneup for the playoffs, the Reds beat Atlanta on Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning. It was their 33rd one-run victory of the season and the 45th time they had come from behind to win.

Cards 6, Pirates 2
 Willie Randolph, playing his first game at third base, committed three of the Pittsburgh errors and second baseman Rennie Stennett and pitcher John Candelaria were charged with two miscues apiece.

Reggie Smith homered and drove in three St. Louis runs.

Mets 5, Phillies 4
 Seaver, 22-9, the winningest pitcher in the National League, was knocked out by Philadelphia in the sixth, but Skip Lockwood preserved the Mets' victory with four perfect innings of relief. Philadelphia's Dave Cash set a major league record of 699 at-bats for the season, when he went to bat four times.

Cubs 9, Expos 6
 Pitcher Rick Reuschel had three hits and knocked in two runs, and Manny Trillo and Andy Thornton each had two RBI for Chicago. Teammate Bill Madlock went hitless, but won the NL batting title with a .354 average.

Giants 5, Padres 3
 The Giants, with the help of two RBI apiece by Gary Matthews and Jack Clark, foiled Jones' bid for his 21st victory, but they couldn't stop him from winning the league's earned run average title. Jones, 20-12, wound up with a 2.24 ERA.

Astros 4, Dodgers 2
 Cliff Johnson slammed a three-run homer, his 20th of the season, capping a four-run eighth inning, in lifting the Astros past the disappointing Dodgers, last year's NL champions but hardly in contention this year.

Nothing dull on AL final day

BY KEN RAPPOPORT
 AP Sports Writer

A no-hitter, two managers fired and a rumored feud. The last day of the American League baseball season was anything but dull.

The Oakland A's finished their regular season with a flourish by beating the California Angels 5-0 Sunday behind the no-hit pitching of Vida Blue and three relievers.

Blue combined with Glenn Abbott, Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers to become part of major league baseball history—the first time that more than two pitchers teamed up to throw a no-hitter.

While Blue and his teammates were splitting up the Angels, two other major league teams were shaking up their management.

The Milwaukee Brewers, who finished the season by beating the Detroit Tigers 7-0, fired Manager Del Crandall and replaced him with Harvey Kuenn. The Minnesota Twins, 6-4 losers to the Chicago White Sox in 10 innings, also lost a manager when Frank Quilici was cut loose.

At Oakland, Blue pitched the first five innings, allowing three men to reach base. Dave Chalk walked with out one in the first inning, but was erased on a double play. Lee Stanton reached base on an error by shortstop Bert Campaneris in the fourth and stole second, but Blue pitched out of the inning without any damage. Blue walked Paul Dade with two out in the fifth. The three relievers retired the last 12 batters in order.

White Sox 6, Twins 4
 Pat Kelly's RBI single capped a two-run 10th inning and led Chicago over Minnesota.

Rangers 3, Royals 1
 Rookie Stan Perzanowski scattered nine hits in Texas' victory over Kansas City.

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR Dr. Lamb— Some time ago you mentioned in one of your columns that Sansert was excellent for the prevention of migraine headaches. I developed what I thought was a dental problem with pain in my lower left jaw that would work its way up into my left temple and settle in my right eye. A dental examination established that my teeth were OK.
A neurologist diagnosed my problem as a vascular condition, and the only thing he gave me was Valium. It didn't help. Then a neurosurgeon put me on Sansert. I began to take four a day, and, much to my amazement, the pain stopped.
After taking Sansert for five months I began having both back and stomach aches. An orthopedic surgeon diagnosed my problem as an old degenerated disc and treated me with various medicines and therapy to no avail.
My internal medicine doctor put me in the hospital, and he ran all kinds of tests and everything was normal. I was getting so distressed that I discontinued taking all medicine, including Sansert. I asked my internal medicine doctor if Sansert could have caused the problem, and he said it was possible, but the neurosurgeon said he didn't think so. Could Sansert have caused my problems? I still have the same pain from time to time, but not every night as I did to begin with. If I catch it in time, Empirin will help, but I may have to take four to six over a period of an hour or so to get relief.

DEAR READER— I am not sure from your letter what type of headache you have or had, but it is not the typical migraine headache. Many headaches are on a vascular basis, though, even if they are not migraine headaches.
Headache pain can be caused by over dilatation of arteries that stretch nerve fibers and cause pain. A good example here is the "morning after" headache with dilated arteries to the head region. Headaches can be caused by muscle contractions and often cause those at the base of the skull and back of the neck. Or, they can be caused by pain from pressure or traction on sensitive areas within the brain. Nervous tension, migraine headaches, even bad posture, can produce their effects through one of these mechanisms.

Sansert (Methysergide) works on headaches, because it raises the person's pain threshold. In other words it takes more pain for you to notice it. It does this by neutralizing a chemical in the body that lowers the pain threshold and is sometimes involved in headaches. It will prevent migraine headaches in about two out of three cases.
It is not totally innocuous and must be used in selected patients, and not used in patients with a variety of problems, including high blood pressure and heart disease.

I don't think the kind of reaction you had after five months is from Sansert. Nausea and vomiting may occur at first, but with smaller doses and a gradual build up, this problem can be avoided. The medicine should be stopped after five or six months of use and careful medical supervision of anyone taking it is mandatory. The complications of Sansert are easily reversed by stopping the medicine.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Sept. 29, the 272nd day of 1975. There are 93 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1066, William the Conqueror invaded England to claim the English throne.
On this date: In 1789, the U.S. War Department established a regular army with a strength of 700 men.
In 1918, Allied forces in World War I scored a decisive breakthrough of the Hindenburg Line in Germany.
In 1923, Britain began to rule Palestine under a mandate from the League of Nations.
In 1941, in World War II, the United States and Britain agreed to send war supplies to the Soviet Union to help resistance to Nazi invaders.
In 1957, nearly 300 persons were killed when an express train hit a parked oil train in West Pakistan.
In 1963, Pope Paul opened the second session of the Roman Catholic Vatican Council.

TO: Carolyn Suzanne Masche, a-k-a Carolyn Suzanne Rootes, and All Whom it May Concern
Take notice that a Petition was filed in the Circuit Court of Lee County, Illinois, for the adoption of a child named Karen Margaret Rootes. Now, therefore, unless you, Carolyn Suzanne Masche, a-k-a Carolyn Suzanne Rootes, and All Whom it May Concern, file your answer to the Petition in said suit or otherwise file your appearance therein, in the Circuit Court of Lee County, Second Floor Courtroom, in the City of Dixon, Illinois, on or before the 20th day of October, 1975, a default may be entered against you at any time after that day and a judgment entered in accordance with the prayer of said Petition.
Dated: September 5, 1975.
